Novel Effort to Save the Life of "Bluebeard" Hoch

By Associated Press.

Chicago, May 18.—Attorney Plotke directed his efforts to saving Hoch's life rather than to a plea for direct acquittal to-day. In concluding his address he said: "I ask you to take with you to the jury room a few lines of poetry and consider them when and before you weigh the evidence upon which you are to acquit or condemn this man. They are words that brought solace to a dying president. With these words in mind I believe you will give this man the liberty which he should have and which is so dear to him." The attorney then recited two verses of "Lead Kindly Light" and after handing each juror a copy of the entire poem closed his argument.

JUDGE PARKHILL COMPLIMENTED

CAPTAIN LAWSON, OF DeFUNKIAK, PRAISES GRACEFUL ACTION OF POPULAR PENSACOLIAN.

Special to The Journal. DeFuniak, May 18.—Captain H. P. Larson of DeFuniak Springs said in the hearing of a Journal correspondent that Judge Parkhill's graceful welcome admitting him to the Florida bar—clinging at the same time the erudite editor of The Pensacola Journal as another congenial person from South Dakota—was very unexpected and complimentary.

"I have seen many very learned judges," said the captain, "but never before met one who could so promptly and politely fine a white man a dollar to sustain court etiquette, grant an unfortunate black brother convicted of murder a new trial because of a reasonable doubt and hypnotize a South Dakotian or two, with genuine Florida courtesy more quickly or satisfactorily, than Judge Parkhill did at the Walton Circuit Court last term." Surely there cannot be found in the court record of any northern judge, and they are usually very learned, estimable, polite and unprejudiced—showing judicially, no race war and no state prejudice, nicer than that.

attempts to float her at that time failed, her position was recognized as serious.

The combined efforts of half a dozen powerful tugs assisted by the crew of the Caronia herself at each high tide since then failed to start the steamer from her position and it was thought that a portion of the vessel's cargo might have to be removed. At high water this morning the efforts to release the steamship were renewed. For more than an hour the towboats strained and tugged at the big hawsers and the Caronia's screws churned the sea. After the tide had begun to recede and as the attempt was about to be abandoned for the time being, the steamer began to slip from her bed in the sand and a few moments later she was resting free with deep water under her keel.

It was announced at the office of the Cunard Steamship Company that the Caronia would resume her voyage at 4:30 p.m. today so as to pass over Sandy Hook bar when the tide was almost full. It was also stated that the ship was not damaged by the accident. The captain sent a message from the Caronia saying that the ship was in need of nothing.

YOUR HAT

May Be a Stylish One, But It Makes Trouble.

A man usually buys a hat that's "in style," but the modern hat for men has lots to answer for.

Baldheads are growing more numerous every day. Hats make excellent breeding places for the parasitic germs which sap the life from the roots of the hair.

When your hair begins to fall out and your scalp is full of dandruff it is a sure sign that these countless germs are busily at work.

There is but one way to overcome the trouble and kill the germs—that way is to apply Newbro's Herpicide to the scalp—it will kill the germs and healthy hair is sure to result.

Sold by leading druggists. For sale by W. A. D'Alemberte, druggist and apothecary, 121 S. Palafox. Send 10 cents in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Company, Detroit, Mich.

NEWS NOTES OF CRESTVIEW

Special to The Journal.

Crestview, May 18.—M. E. Savage visited Pensacola the first part of the week.

Miss Sallie Powell returned from a week's visit to her sister at Cowans Tuesday.

Mr. G. B. Bush, L. & N. agent at Westville, was up here on a visit Sunday, returning Monday.

Mr. F. M. Golsen, of Marianna, passed through en route to Florida Saturday.

C. C. McRae, of the Florida News, was in town yesterday.

Mr. R. E. Kelly paid a visit to his home at Chipley last Saturday.

The recent heavy rains have got the rivers on a rise and all log men are now busy getting out their logs.

All of the stockmen are off on their sheep ranch about 20 miles south of here, for a month shearing sheep.

All crops are doing fine now, and farmers are busy keeping the grass down.

Mr. Hodges returned from Wing, Ala., the first part of the week and will open a first class refreshment stand near the depot.

Quite a lot of interest is manifested here in the proposed new county of Bloxham, and all are watching it very closely, and if it is successful there might be such a thing as to take part of Santa Rosa and Walton and make a new county out of it with Crestview as the county site.

In Vanity Fair.

A woman wishing to purchase Happiness at any price was directed to a booth in Vanity Fair.

"I wish," she said, "to buy a Woman's Friendship."

"Madam," said the Clerk in attendance, "such commodities are not for sale. I am told, however, that they are awarded to deserving applicants at a house on Good Fellow Street. There are two women passing yonder with a Friendship between them."

"I have neither time nor strength to go so far," said the Woman wearily. "I shall have to buy Love instead."

"That is not for sale here either, but you will find many Occasions when it is given away unasked."

"Why do you continue searching among your wares?"

"I find I have been mistaken. Here, after all, is something labeled Love."

"Ah, but I see quite well that this is not the genuine article."

"Madam," whispered the Shopman, not to be overheard, "we have no genuine articles. All our wares are imitation."—New York Times.

A Story of Joe Manley.

Chief Justice Fuller of the United States supreme court was on a visit to Maine some years ago and while there was entertained by Joe Manley. Mr. Manley was held in great reverence by his fellow citizens all over Maine and especially in Augusta, his home. He took Mr. Fuller for a drive about the place, but was forced by a pressing business engagement to leave his guest before the drive was finished. When Mr. Manley had disappeared the driver turned to the judge, whom he did not know, and drawing out a cigar, said: "I suppose you don't mind if I smoke when we are driving Mr. Manley we never light up, because he's rather a distinguished citizen." Fuller repressed a laugh and told the driver to go ahead, which he did. Later the chief justice retailed the joke to Mr. Manley, who at the first opportunity told the driver a few things, winding up, "You miserable three ply idiot, that was the chief justice of the United States."

Facing the Camera.

When the wise ones go to be photographed they resign themselves wholly to the photographer, who pays as much attention to every detail of pose as would a famous portrait painter. At rare intervals women send some picture—sometimes it is an illustration from book or magazine—that they have taken a fancy to ahead of them as a suggestion; but, as a rule, they express few definite desires as to their poses. The photographer studies his subjects from every point of view, accentuates their good points by many interesting devices, eliminates their less favorable aspects by others equally so—in short, devotes himself to them for the time being as if the entire universe revolved only for the benefit of the anticipated result. Women often pose as long as two hours, during which time they have frequently been photographed in as many as twenty-five different attitudes.—New York Tribune.

CONFESSES TO MANY CRIMES

WROTE TO POLICE SAYING HE WAS GUILTY OF FIVE MURDERS AND MANY ROBBERIES.

By Associated Press.

Chester, W. Va., May 18.—In a letter to the police, a man signing himself "A. Johnson," and claiming to be a partner of Henry Williams, recently executed in Roanoke, Va., has confessed to five murders and numerous robberies. His reasons for writing are that other men have suffered for his crimes and his conscience troubles him. The dates and manner in which the crimes were committed as furnished in Johnson's letter are more complete than police records, and the authorities believe its authenticity.

According to Johnson he killed a woman at Chester, W. Va., two Italians at Uniontown, Pa., a man at Hyndman, Pa., and a woman at Martin's Ferry, Ohio. He also claims to have assaulted a woman at Staunton, Va., for which crime, he says, another man was lynched.

Bothering a Duellist.

Brantome, a French author, in "Dueling Stories of the Sixteenth Century," tells of the code then in vogue. It was allowed in the challenge to stipulate as many different weapons as one pleased without specifying the particular ones with which one would actually fight. The antagonist was bound to provide himself with all. One duelist insisted "on the provision of no less than thirty different kinds of armament, for foot and horseback; nay, he even specified the kind of horse—coarsers, blood horses from Spain and Turkey, thoroughbreds, cobs, some in harness with ears and tail clipped, some saddled in jennet style, some with heavy plated armor and so on. The object was not only to take his adversary by surprise, but to put him to enormous expense and exhaust his resources."

The Horse Teaches the Man.

While there is no royal road to learning the game of polo in its entirety, there is a plebeian way that leads straight to its secrets. Let the novice get on an old broken down polo pony get on an old broken down polo pony that knows the game all the way through from a lifetime of playing. Then the pony will play the game for him and will be his teacher. The learner will start in with a few strokes of his mallet till his seat and his aim and strength of stroke, and gradually he will work into regular play. Then, like other faithful teachers, the wise old horse will be superseded, but his work will live.—Country Life in America.

Boys and Baths.

It is a fact well within common knowledge that boys, when worthy of the name, have an instinctive aversion, unconquerable by anything less unreasonable than force, to baths and even to thorough washing of their hands and faces. They consider these rites unnecessary and uncomfortable, resent them as grotesque waste of boyhood's precious time and avoid the performance of them as often and as long as they can. This peculiarity is easily enough explicable on the theory that the child passes through the developmental stages of his race and while in the savage or barbarian stage has the aptitudes and repugnances of savages and barbarians. But quite as much as the boy hates baths he loves to go in swimming, which by the oldsters is also called bathing. That cracks the theory all to pieces and leaves the mystery right where it was before. Nobody has marked the hour when bathing for the civilized human ceases to be torture and becomes pleasure, but certainly it is well beyond boyhood.—New York Times.
